A SOCIAL EVENING IN MASONIC HALL

MUSICAL AND LITERARY PROGRAM DEVOTED TO BURNS AND WASHINGTON

A delightful program was given on Saturday evening by the F. and A. M. No. 28, at their temple. The exercises consisted of music and literature and was devoted to Burns and Washington, great men and great masons.

The program was opened by a piano selection, American and Scotch Medley by Mrs. W. McLean. It was not only appropriate to the occasion, but most delightfully rendered.

The worshipful master, Ivan C. Arnold, delivered an address, ennobling and beneficial, and then introduced the following:

A Scotch solo by Mrs. J. Guenet, which was given in Mrs. Guenet's usual fine manner and was made most touching by the strains of the violin by Mr. Guenet, accompanied by Mrs. R. Bayless.

"Burns, the Man and the Mason," a paper by Thomas Lindsay, was full to overflowing with many treasures from the life of Robert Burns. Mr. Lindsay touched the high and low places, the lights and shadows in the life of the interesting and beloved Scot.

Mrs. J. Hasman gave in her usual pleasant manner one of George Washington's famous speeches, which was followed by a whistling solo by Mrs. G. Cresswell, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. R. Bayless. To say that Mrs. Cresswell's solo was appreciated is putting it in the mildest terms. She took the audience by storm.

"Washington, the Man and the Mason," a paper read by Robert J. Highland, was given in Mr. Highland's usual fine way. His well modulated voice makes anything he reads doubly interesting. Mrs. H. Burk, accompanist, Mrs. R. Bayless, gave a solo, "America," in its new form which was of unusual beauty.

Dr. R. H. Burdick gave a reading from Burns, the beauty of which was brought out forcibly by the doctor's splendid delivery and clear tones.

A remarkable feature of the program was the quartet, composed of the Messrs. Nelson, Seeley, Bayless and Burdick, accompanied by Mrs. McLean at the piano; mandolins, Mrs. C. Loving and Mrs. A. L. Brown. The selection was "Listen to the Mocking Bird," made more than beautiful by Mrs. Cresswell's wonderful whistling. Needless to say the audience demanded an encore.

The last number was the Scotch solo by Mrs. J. Simmons, accompanied by Mrs. G. Pettegrove. The selection was peculiarly suitable to Mrs. Simmons powerful and pleasing voice.

A buffet supper was served by the Mizpah Grill and enjoyed by the large crowd. The evening was the sort that seemed worth while.

WOMAN SHOTS AT A RETREATING BURGLAR

MRS. BOSCH PUTS UP PLUCKY FIGHT WHEN ATTACKED AT MIDNIGHT

Awakened from her slumbers at 11:45 Saturday night, Mrs. G. S. Bosch opened the rear door of her residence, expecting that she was admitting her husband, when she was attacked by a burglar and had the battle of her life, coming out victorious, although she was unable to capture her assailant.

Mr. Bosch told his wife when he went down town that he expected to stay out rather late and she didn't need to wait up for him. Evidently he was seen down town by the burglar, who hastened to the Bosch residence on upper Main street to burglarize the place during his absence. Mrs. Bosch narrates her experience as follows:

"I had fallen off into a doze, when I heard someone tapping at the front door, but I thought it was a customer and paid no attention, as my husband

SUNDAY SERVICE AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

REVIEW OF LIFE OF LONGFELLOW, WHOSE BIRTHDAY WAS YESTERDAY

Sunday school at the Presbyterian church is in a very live condition. The young people find great delight in going there for there is something "new" going on all the time. The new orchestra has added greatly to the spirit of the music. Some of those who are growing old in years are becoming young, in point of interest, because of the "up-to-dateness" of this school. The novel feature of yesterday's hour was the excellent review of the life and work of the famous American poet, Longfellow, whose birthday it was.

At the morning hour the pastor delivered the sixth and last sermon on the 23rd psalm. Great value has been derived from the study of this, "The Pearl of Psalms," Mrs. Perry Chandler very beautifully rendered a soporano solo, "Jesus Master."

The C. E. had a good meeting and the orchestra, lead by Prof. Cross, was quite an addition.

The morning services were well attended, but owing to the inclement weather, the evening audience was a little small. Mr. C. C. Boak rendered a beautiful solo, "Excelsior." Mr. Bayless spoke upon the resources of life. He showed that all have been specially endowed for some work, that is not the possession but the use of the talent that honors God and uplifts humanity.

J. R. TOGNONI HELD FOR ATTEMPT TO KILL

YOUNG MAN ARRESTED WHILE ON HIS WEDDING JOURNEY

As the result of an altercation with W. F. Mendes at Duckwater, on February 8, J. R. Tognoni, son of Joe Tognoni, the Duckwater rancher, was placed in the Nye county jail and this morning was given a preliminary examination before Justice Dunseath, charged with shooting at Mr. Mendes with a shotgun.

There was a very romantic feature attending the case, in that Tognoni was arrested at Beatty, while honeymooning with his bride, a girl of 16, Ina Cates, who had not secured parental consent for the marriage. They left Duckwater and drove in Mr. Tognoni's car to Goldfield, a distance of about 150 miles, where they were married and started south on their wedding trip.

At the hearing this morning a number of witnesses appeared for the state after which Justice Dunseath bound the defendant over until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in the district court. Bonds were fixed at $500.

Hang onto your pennies, boys. The growing scarcity of copper may some day put a premium on the little devils.

J. A. MURPHY of San Francisco is stopping at the Mizpah.

carries a latchkey. Then came a rap at the rear door. "What do you want?" I asked. I mistook the voice for Mr. Bosch's when he replied: "Open the door."

"I did so and was seized by the throat. I caught him by the collar and twisted as hard as I could, meanwhile trying to make my way to where there was a loaded 22-calibre rifle. Seizing it, I cried: 'Get out or I'll kill you.' He ran and I fired, but missed him."

The police have thus far made three arrests, but Mrs. Bosch has been unable to identify any of them. There was a considerable sum of money in the house, as is the custom on Saturday, when collections are made after banking hours. Mrs. Bosch will have a means of identifying her assailant if the right fellow is brought before her by the officers.

PERSONAL

G. W. QUIGLEY and H. M. Clifford autoted to near Peavine yesterday to look at a mining property. On their return near Millers their auto plowed into the mud and today was rescued by another machine which landed it on terra-firma.

JUMBO NOW WORKS FROM NEW SHAFT

DEVELOPMENT TO START IN EASTERN PART OF FAMOUS PROPERTY

Operations of the Jumbo Extension company continue along established lines, with development work on several levels reaching out into new territory. It was decided some time ago to defer the sinking of the Velvet shaft to the 1017-foot level until the necessary work could be done at the 790 and 900-foot levels to permit of starting at once the exploration of this part of the company's ground. The Velvet shaft has passed the 900-foot level and when sinking is resumed it will require little time to reach the deepest level and make connection with the north cross-cut from the most easterly workings in the Velvet at that depth, says the Tribune.

The completion of the No. 2 shaft to this level will at once relieve the heavy burden on the hoisting plant at the No. 1 or Paloverde shaft, by permitting of the hoisting of ore and waste from the deeper levels through this more accessible shaft, and it will then be possible to effect important economies in the extraction of ore and to more readily select the grade of ore desired for shipping.

On the deeper level of the Jumbo Extension mine a large tonnage of ore has been exposed that is below the desired shipping grade, but which is admirably suited for treatment by oil flotation and will yield substantial revenues when treated by this process. In some places, where the ore of shipping grade has been stopped, it

AMUSEMENTS

BUTLER THEATER

William Faversham, the brilliant star, who has scores of stage successes to his credit, will be seen at the Butler this evening in "One Million Dollars," a five-reel story of mystery, love and intrigue from the novel "One Million Francs" by Frederick Arnold Kummer. In this production Mr. Faversham is surrounded by an able supporting cast including Henry Bergman, George Le Guere, Arthur Morrison, Carlotta de Felice, Mayme Kelso and many other well known artists of the screen and stage. The story moves rapidly from the first scene, which is laid in India, to the last picture made aboard Mr. Faversham's yacht. Mr. Faversham is seen in the role of a noted criminologist, who has acquired strange and occult powers through his friendship for a Buddhist priest. It will be a treat for the theater goers of Tonopah to have an opportunity of seeing an actor of Mr. Faversham's ability, as he has only been seen here on one other occasion, and the production in which Mr. Faversham appears insures a hearty reception for the picture wherever it is shown. The preliminary reel will be Pathe Weekly.

Tomorrow, Paramount travel pictures, and Marguerite Clark, the popular screen favorite, in a Famous Players production, "Seven Sisters."

Watch for the date on "Somewhere in France," authentic war pictures.

FLOTATION PLANTS NEARING COMPLETION

Two flotation plants, to begin operations within the next two or three weeks, and a drilling plant to prospect at great depth, will cause renewed interest to center in operations of the Goldfield district in the near future, says the Tribune. The success of flotation in the treatment of the base ores of the district has been amply established by exhaustive tests and the application of the process to these ores is expected to mark the opening of a new era in Goldfield's progress and productiveness. The Consolidated company's 50-ton unit and the Nevada Metal Extraction company's 150-ton plant are expected to be treating ore early in March. The Silver Pick company is awaiting the arrival of its drilling equipment.

has been necessary in order to secure the greatest economy, to extract quantities of this lower grade ore, that it might be saved from total loss when the exhausted stopes were abandoned and permitted to cave, after being filled with waste. This has placed a limit upon the production of the higher grade product, with but one shaft available for hoisting.
